Things Were Heard, Seen Lost, and Regreted on Hike

By Ginger Snaps

Special bulletin number six issued by Miss Adams went something like this: "Attractions on the annual hike at Lake Laurel will be the hike around the lake, games, swimming, and boating under college regulations."

Should those in charge of the hike have predicted this as the most down right enjoyable day of the year, the belief is that class work preparation would have been discontinued days ago in anticipation of this gala event.

To those who cared not to indulge in these pleasures, we will

Luecker Heads Next College Theatre Play

Under the direction of Edna West, the College Theater has begun its first production, THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER. The play is being staged by Leo Luecker and the play production class.

The authors, Moss Hart and George O. Kaufman, give us an insight into the profound life of Alexander Woolcott in the character of Sheridan Whiteside, which is being played by Mr. Luecker. Marian Stewart has been cast as Lorraine Sheldon, who is a personification of Gertrude Lawrence. Mildred Covin has the part of Whiteside's secretary, Maggie Cutler, who is proud to present in one of the prominent roles in the production Robert Black, who is a featured player on the stage, radio, and screen. Mr. Black is visiting Mrs. T. H. Clark in Milledgeville. He has been starred in many stock performances, and he played in the screen version of THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME. In THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER, he is Bev.

Y Indicator Shows Marriage Vocatoin, Religion Top Interests

When a roll was taken by the YWCA Monday, October 13 at the close of their chapel program, marriage, vocations, and religion proved to be the predominating interests. Each student was given an opportunity to check the topics which most appealed to her. This information will be used in planning the forums and various other programs sponsored by the Y during the year. Interest in the activities of the Y was manifest by the fact that out of a student body of 1200, 1000 students joined the YWCA by signing the pledge and membership blanks distributed Monday in chapel.

Dear Parents

Welcome to GSCW. We've said that on the front page, but we are repeating it to make sure you realize how delighted we are to have you on our campus to spend the day. If this is your first visit with your daughter, she has your time well planned. Perhaps you've been here before, if so, renew your old acquaintances and look around for our improvements and changes since your last visit.

All parents are interested in their daughter's college "homes." The entire campus is open for inspection today. This is your opportunity to meet the members of the faculty. You might even discuss your daughter with them. The roommates and friends of your girl will be on hand. By this time she has acquired many friends and her desire is for you to know them. Nothing can make a college career as lasting a memory as friends made there.

We hope you will enjoy the lunch which will be served at noon on the front campus.

During the afternoon you may tour Milledgeville and see many of the old homes. This city has historical as well as modern places of interest.

We hope you enjoy your visit and will return again before next Parent's Day.

Another Real Opportunity

Each year the YWCA sponsors a particular week of discussion of religion and its meaning to students. This group of meetings is called Religious Emphasis Week. Beginning Monday, five outstanding ministers of the South will be on the campus.

Two weeks ago the Vocational Institute was a success in programs and attendance. Religious Emphasis Week has as much to offer as this institute.

There will be a program at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. each day. The Y has invited speakers from several parts of the South to give these inspirational talks. There is no theme to run throughout the program, but different subjects have been chosen by each speaker.

Because the Vocational Institute was so well attended and was so successful it is believed that the spirit of Religious Emphasis Week will penetrate the campus next week.

The Y is offering an opportunity to each girl to attend all the programs scheduled. The talks will not be so long that they will interfere with other activities. It is advised by many that set programs for next week might well be missed in order to receive the Religious Emphasis Week opportunities.

Letters To

The Editor

Dear Editor,

Whether there is a remedy at present for this problem or not we would like to know. The question is: Why is the lighting in the library so poor?

The reserve room lights are fairly good. It is a strain to read in the main reading room at night. The lights are supposed to be reflector lamps, but the shades are dark and absorb a good deal of the light that might be given forth.

It must be true that the lighting is poor because the librarians have small desk lamps which they use at night.

A place of study should have proper lighting. May we suggest that the light be tested and actually see if it is as poor as it seems to be.

SEVERAL STUDENTS.

Dear Editor:

This year's annual hike was supervised beautifully! We think the three major organizations and all college officials should be congratulated on the excellent way that the hike was managed from the time we left until we returned. The entire student body is to be praised also for their cooperation. This is the best hike we've had yet!

TWO SENIORS.

Gadabout

By BLANCHE LAYTON

Yippee! The senior code has been passed. If this column seems "wacky" or "whacky" this week, please excuse me. It's because I'm so excited over the code. Helen DeLamar certainly believes in doing things right away, for she was ready for an all-day trip on Saturday. Claude Ellen Longley "shares the wealth." I know, for she let Mary Eve Gay and Sarah Sloane go with her and the "love of her life" for a ride early Saturday. As a matter of fact they were the first unchaperoned seniors to go for a ride.

Of course, I hope your boy friend is here today, but I especially hope you're lucky enough to have your parents with you. In education class the other day Dr. Little asked Carol Estes what she would do if she were marooned on an island with five hundred children. To this question Carol immediately replied, "I'd go off some place and sit down and think."

Mary Sallee had the Corinthian staff at her home on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. J. H. Dewberry entertained the D.A.R. Good Citizenship club at her home on Monday afternoon.

My bat is off to Mrs. Doster for the lovely food she has been preparing for us.

The dramatic department is hard at work on "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

Twenty-two girls were admitted to Cotillion club last Thursday evening.

Mayfair won first place in the skit contest on the annual hike at Lake Laurel.

Could it be a glimpse of the harvest moon, yellow through trees etched against the blue black sky, or that first exquisite, tissue-paper, crinkle of fall leaves that does it—that sets the wanderlust to glowing? It could be the little pre-view whiffs of November's winds; anyhow, SOMETHING stirs that age-old instinct of restless longing for the open road along 'bout this time of year.

One shuffles her feet; one eased down in her chair, and lets her mind have "free reins," and ferrous oxide, or the liad, or whatever topic that is under discussion fades into a monotone of unreality. One's mind is gone (figuratively speaking) out the window, down that avenue of

Let It Succeed

It seems that several faculty members are not cooperating with the seniors in their privilege of having unlimited class cuts. Why does it hurt a teacher personally when students cut his or her class? It seems to us that if the seniors cut class that it hurts the students rather than the teacher.

The ruling was passed by the faculty council without any request from the seniors themselves. Then why do high officials have to be called when students are absent with good reasons? The class, as a whole, is trying in all respects to prove that it is capable of making choices equal to adult ability. Although some faculty members seem to question their absence, the faculty is cooperating well.

The seniors are sure that their grades will come up as well as they have in past years, but if the faculty, and not all, just one or two, continue to question their absence the opinion of the class will be lowered. The seniors wish the faculty who believe them to be capable of their choosing how to spend their class time, not to lose this belief. It is not a personal insult to a teacher when a class is missed.

The situation depends a great deal on the faculty making their classes so important to students that they do not miss class. As has been stated though, the seniors are not intending to cut classes more often than seniors have in the past.

I HAVE LOVED ENGLAND

Alice Duer Miller

Using the opening lines of "The White Cliffs" as her theme, Mrs. Miller has given us another picture of that gallant England she loves so much and that we—both those who know England in fiction as well as those who have been there—will always cherish and remember.

The illustrations are beautiful, catching all the charm of quiet streams and lacy trees in the country scenes to the majesty and grace of cathedrals and other well-known land marks of English history. Even the "ghost on the stair" mentioned in the White Cliffs is presented in a most interesting fashion. Opposite each photograph Mrs. Miller has written of some interesting events of happening, as of the ghost or quotes some well loved line of poetry.

I Have Loved England is a book for us to look at now and be inspired by and one for us always to cherish and remember—the merry English of other days.

BERLIN DIARY by William L. Shirer, Berlin correspondent of the Columbia Broadcasting System, gives the first uncensored account of Nazi activity by one who has been on the inside during those cataclysmic years from 1934 until the present time.

William Shirer has covered most of the world-stirring events of the past ten years. It has often been said that Shirer is the man on the spot when an important story is breaking and any reader of the DIARY will find ample proof of this statement.

Written in a brilliant journalistic style BERLIN DIARY has steadily held its place at the top of the national best seller list with around 468,000 copies sold and selected by the Book-of-the-Month.

Many heretofore unknown facts or at least facts not backed by eye-witnesses accounts are told in the DIARY. Of especial interest is the inside story of the building of the German war machine behind Hitler's peace mask.

BERLIN DIARY is such an important book on the background leading up to the present conflict and is a "must" for all people interested in keeping up with this changing world.

Dr. Johnson Entertains History Club at Party

The History Club was entertained Monday October 13, by Dr. Amanda Johnson with a picture show party and social. This was the first meeting of the club for fall quarter.

During the year the club has chosen several topics for discussion among which are: the two Americas, Defense at Home, the Far East, and Anglo-American Policy. The club is divided into four groups with a captain for each group; each will take a topic for discussion and the group presenting the best program during the year will be entertained by the losing groups.

Miss Gardner studied with Evan Evans of the Julliard School of Music in New York City after receiving her degree at GSCW in 1939. During the following year she taught in the city schools of Fountain Inn, S. C. For the past year she has been on the faculty of the music department of GSCW.

Frosh Day Brought Pigtails, Black Stocking In Style

By Dilsey Arthur

Air raid! Down went freshmen knees. Up went junior satisfaction. Throughout the day the newest class at GSCW lived the life of dogs. Once again last Thursday the sister class of the freshmen took advantage of their opportunity to act as only big sisters can.

Annually a day is set aside for freshman initiation. And what happens then? Everything! Everything from making beds and polishing shoes to reverent kneeling before any girl who wears a lavender and purple ribbon. And just look at the creed! This they had to recite WITHOUT ERROR.

"Elevate your oblongata to the summit of your pericranium and allow me to present for your ocular demonstration this scientific piece of mechanism which forms the equestrian portion of this apartment. That, Madam, is the Freshman creed."

Please note the "Madam." This was required by the juniors, for they said, the freshmen must "uphold the standards of Emily Post."

The sophomores watched all with pitying eyes. They could here.

Dr. James K. Hunt, technical adviser for the Public Relations Department of the du Pont Company, is coming to GSCW on Tuesday, October 28 to give a lecture in Russell auditorium at 8 p.m. His subject is: "Better Things for Better Living... Through Chemistry."

Dr. Hunt has helped to develop better things for better living through chemical research. A native son of the South, he was born near Memphis, Tennessee, in 1891.

Dr. Hunt was graduated at Alabama Polytechnic Institute with his B. S. degree in chemical engineering. He did post-graduate work at the University of Wisconsin and received his M. S. degree in 1925, his Ph. D. degree in 1926. He chose for his major field physical chemistry and as his minor, physics. Dr. Hunt was for more than ten years a research chemist in the Chemical Department at the du Pont Experimental Station, Wilmington, Delaware. While at the Experimental Station, he worked personally and later directed research on wide variety of problems, including paints, varnishes, lacquers, drying oils, asphalt, cellulose derivatives, coated fabrics and textile finishes. Since January 1937, he has been connected with the Public Relations Department of the du Pont Company as technical adviser.

Tuesday night, October 21, the first group meetings will be held at 7:15 o'clock. The groups will meet in the following places: group 4, Chappell 1; group 2, Chappell 7; group 3, Chappell 18; group 4, Chappell 2; group 5, Chappell 15; group 6, Chappell 1; group 7, Chappell 7. The program committee has suggested the following subjects for programs: a work-shop featuring Red Cross work, home nursing and first aid treatment, music in religion and home, consumer education in defense.

Annual Hike—

climbing the hills; Dr. Wynne relating his sad tale, while making his rounds of the food stations, of how he and his wife needed food badly; and a cook mumbling "I disremember" when asked how long she had been preparing food for the annual hikes.

Things seen: Dr. Scott taking students boat riding right at supper time; Dean Taylor posing with a group of girls with a "Boy's Dressing Room" sign as a part of the background; two students miscalculating and stepping off the board walk across the lake; and those fancy beige hats bedecking the heads of Miss Adams and Miss Neese.

Things lost: Two sacks containing grapes and crackers hidden behind a certain tree; a Bee-son girl's skirt to her play suit; a left heel off a much-beloved saddle oxford; and dignity from several faculty members.

Things regretted: Eating too much food; drinking too many cokes; having the seniors hiking for the last time; eating too much food; leaving the extra sweater in the dormitory; falling to bring the roommate who didn't go; a hat and horn; and eating too much food.

in publications, dramatics, music; good citizenship in dormitory, in the classroom, on the campus; general excellence of personality and character.

The YWCA announces that $240.00 was cleared from the Refugee Ball which was an event of October 4.

In spite of his highly technical training, Dr. Hunt's lectures make a direct popular appeal and are intelligible to the masses. The public is cordially invited to attend the lecture.

So refreshing with lunch

A La Mode

Goodness, gracious! Did the pages of history turn back on us last Thursday when we saw all those demure little girls running around wearing long black stockings, or were we just tipsy? Oh, it was initiation, was it? Well, we liked those costumes very much. Neat was the word for them (though perhaps the froth won't agree). All we can say is that they just should have seen what's gone before.

Not changing the subject — but Louise Humphrey, looking very collegiate and most industrious, was going to classes in a tan wool skirt and a matching sweater. Around her neck she wore not "a yellow ribbon" but a two-tone wooden necklace of brown and tan.

Doris Fowler was sporting a soldier blue—or was it victory blue—last Sunday. It was fashioned of silk crepe and had an unusual triangle collar trimmed with blue and white striped silk grosgrain ribbon and six star buttons. The skirt was pleated all the way around.

Juanita Pitts has a stunning Sunday-go-to-meeting dress. It is in the latest style with a black taffeta and velvet tiered flared skirt and the waist is fitted.

Two little gold bows were the highlight of Mary Jeanne Everett's green crepe seen Sunday. The waist is draped and crisscrossed—the skirt has that poplin—so dashing now.

Classical is the word for Jeanne Peterson's grey-brown challis. It is torso waisted with a gathered skirt and long fitted sleeves.

Stepping out to the Methodist tea last Wednesday was Mary Reese in a navy blue alpaca, short sleeved suit. The jacket was tucked across the front and back. The embroidered blouse featured a dainty chignon and lace jabot—the belt was a red and blue girle. With Mary was seen Mary Ruth Foshee in a black velvet short sleeved shirt waist dress. It was trimmed with red buttons. With this she wore a black felt bonnet.

Some day we hope to enlarge our vocabulary enough to describe the hats seen in church; but for now—we must say look at them yourself.

Seniors Entertain With Coffee Sunday

The senior class will entertain with a coffee honoring the faculty, the NYA staff and the house-mothers Sunday afternoon at Sanford hall from 4 until 6 o'clock.

In the receiving line will be Nancy Ragland, Margaret Baldwin, Doris Warnock, Miss Lottie Neese, Miss Ethel Adams, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Dawson, Doris Dunn, Ann Gwynn, Ethel Bell Smith and Martha Daniel.

The color scheme will be yellow and gold. Autumn flowers and yellow candles will be used on the coffee table.

WELCOME PARENTS— This column, the Recreation Association, its president, Doris Warnock, and our physical education department faculty, take this opportunity to welcome you to our campus. The association has its office in the Physical Education and Health building. Our lounge is at your disposal and our facilities are open to your inspection.

There won't be a welcoming committee to meet you because, after all, our "Mommies" are here, too, but do come over during the afternoon and see our office, the swimming pool and the roof garden on the side of our wonderful gymnasium! And in case you want to see how daughter spends a Saturday night in college, stay long enough so that you can attend our Play Night from 8:00 until 10:00.

At a meeting of the executive board last Monday night, Sarah Taylor was elected representative from Town Girls to Executive Board. She will lead the lo-

The "gym" is yours tonight to dance or play table tennis from 8:00 until 10:00. Yes—PLAY NIGHT will be held with Gene Staley, manager, as hostess for the evening. And you're certainly welcome to bring your dates with you. (In fact, we urge it!)

Last Saturday night after everybody had registered, we found that more girls from Enns came but Terrell B and C, Bell Annex and Terrell Proper had a very good attendance. Beeson and Town Girls had the smallest representation. So come on over and let's see who will have the largest attendance this time.

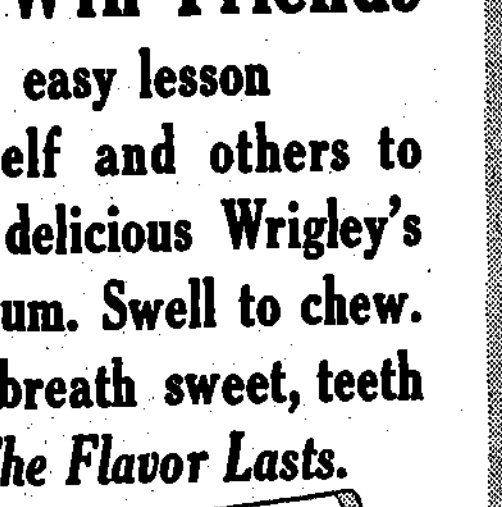

The Swimming Club will hold our annual tryout Monday night at 8 o'clock in the swimming pool. Students will be tested on the front crawl, back crawl, side stroke, and breast stroke. All students interested are invited to try out.

Mayfair Wins Skit

In the dormitory stunts at the annual hike, Mayfair won first place, Atkinson, second, and Beeson and Sanford tied for third. These were presented after the picnic supper and the bon fire sing.

Students were transported to Lake Laurel in county school buses without accident or confusion. Students in each dormitory were given different colored pieces of paper which signified the time they were to leave.

As buses were loaded in front of the campus, where horns, harps, hats, and other favors were distributed. At different points around the lake fruits, nuts, crackers, drinks, and candies were served.

Rec Holds Annual Recognition Services

The recognition service of the Recreation Association was held Friday morning in chapel to acquaint the students with the organization.

The president, Doris Warnock, introduced the officers and the ex-officio members who are: Martha Daniel, president of College Government, and Mary Jeanne Everett, president of YWCA. She also introduced Miss Grace Potts as the "valuable friend and advisor" of the Recreation Association.

The three presidents of the upper classes and a freshman representative came to the stage to accept their class flags which are symbolic of the spirit of competition and good fun in the school. Each class will defend its flag during the season of each team sport. Competition works like this: The seniors challenge the juniors to a game. The seniors beat and get their opponent's flag. Then they challenge the sophomores and beat them, so they get the sophomore flag. But say the freshmen come along and beat the seniors, then they get all the flags, but still the other three classes can challenge the freshmen and try to get back their flag.

These flags will be placed in the Physical Education building in the hall on the other side of the post office.

he will be speaking and give an hour's talk one day during the institute. GSCW is quite privileged to obtain Dr. Jones since he made an exception to his former plans in order to speak to the "largest girl's school in the state of Georgia." He is a missionary to India and is under the Federal Council of Churches. He is probably the most outstanding man in the religious field GSCW has ever had on her campus, and all who can, should avail themselves of this envied opportunity of hearing him speak.

On Tuesday the Baptist Student Union is having a "Dutch Luncheon" in the college cafeteria for Dr. Trimmer, Wednesday Dr. and Mrs. Elliott will be entertained at a reception at the Sallee home by the Presbyterian students.

From curtain to curtain the play is hilarious. To quote: "The new comedy is, from end to end, turbulent, absorbing, eccentric, and immensely funny. . . Don't blame me if you don't have a good time at THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER—take it up with your doctor. There's something wrong with your funny-bone."—The N. Y. Journal American.
